

Building the Organization to Improve the Services and the Effect in Society

Innovative Land administration systems. Well-functioning Cadastral systems – Examples from the Nordic countries - 1

Mr. Pekka Halme
Director of Strategic Development
NLS Finland
June 18, 2014

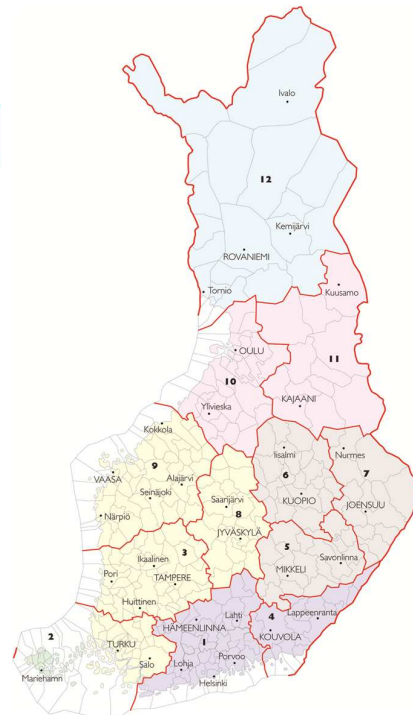

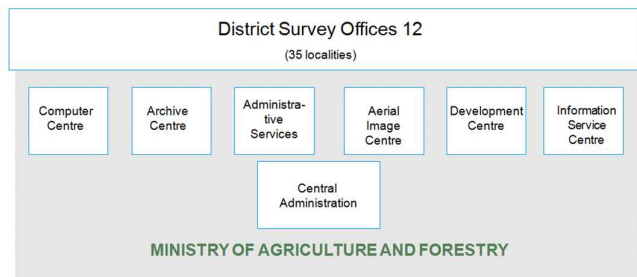

Contents

- Background
- Organization 2014
- Organization 2015
- New ICT-systems
- Closing remarks

NLS Organization Until 2013

Reasons for Change

- Potential of the old structure fully exploited
- Increasing pressure to
 - Improve efficiency of government agencies
 - Create savings
 - Raise quality
 - Develop electronic services

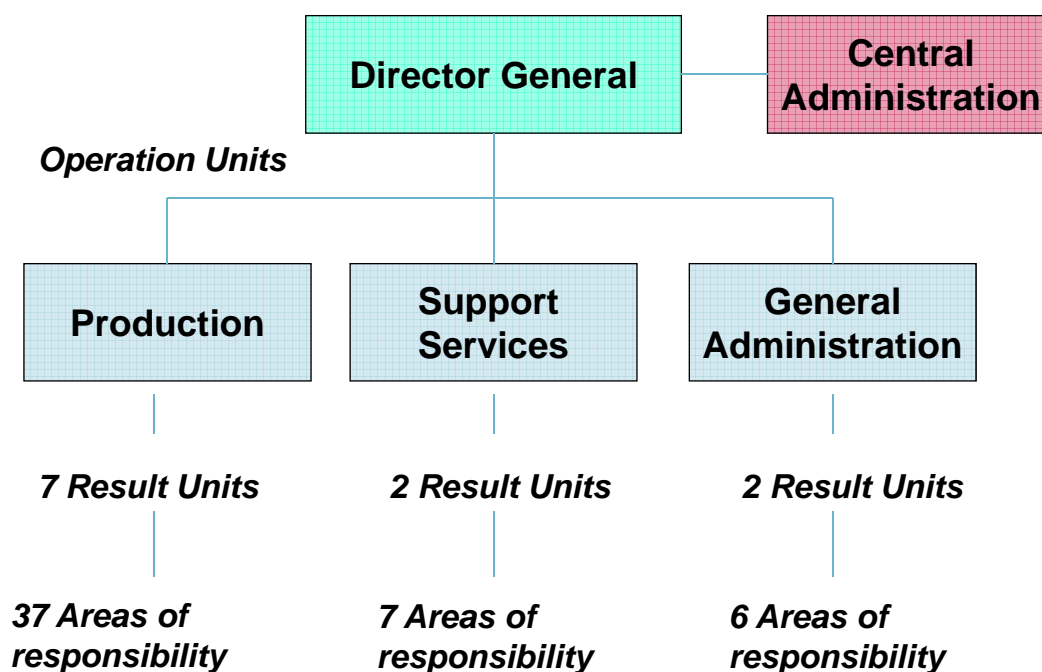

Principles

- Keep processes, service points, staff
- Renew management system and organizational structure
 - From regional to nation-wide units
- Centralize administrative and information services
- Introduce electronic work queues

NLS Organization 2014

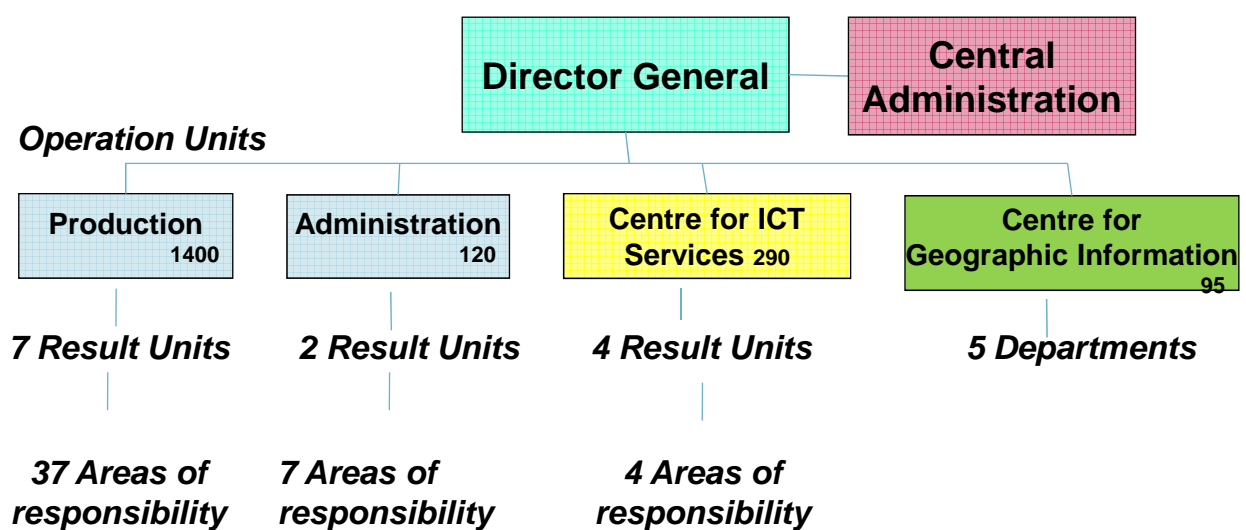

Merger in Sight

- Parallel to the first project new political initiative to merge NLS, FGI and Tike
 - FGI = Finnish Geodetic Institute
 - Tike = Information Centre of the Ministry of Agriculture and Forestry
- Target time January 1, 2015
- Planning started 2013
- New project launched February, 2014

NLS Organization 2015

New ICT Systems Introduced

- Land register production system
 - May 2013
- Electronic real estate conveyance system
 - November 2013
- Electronic work queues
 - January 2014
- Centralized information services
 - January 2014

Concluding Remarks

- Efficient government administration
- Better and more uniform service
- Savings
- Synergy

More information

pekka.halme@nls.fi

