About 70% of the land rights in the world are not documented

In a time where the population continues to grow and the pressure on land and natural resources increases, this results in many land conflicts and competing claims on land

Appropriate administration of land, is the start of conflict resolution and sustainable land use (spatial planning)

Kenya

Participative methods got a lot of local support from the village

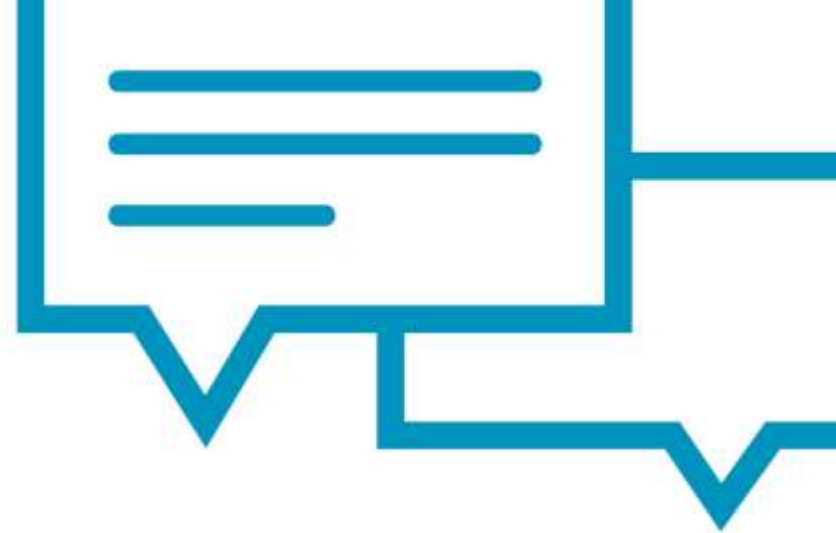

SW

IT availability is too low in the country to reach large scale land registration

Surveyors in Kenya recognise their changing role in land registration. Government in Kenya is accepting new FFP methods as tested

OT

Conflicts may arise in customary areas, for instance between shepherds and farmers

Brazil

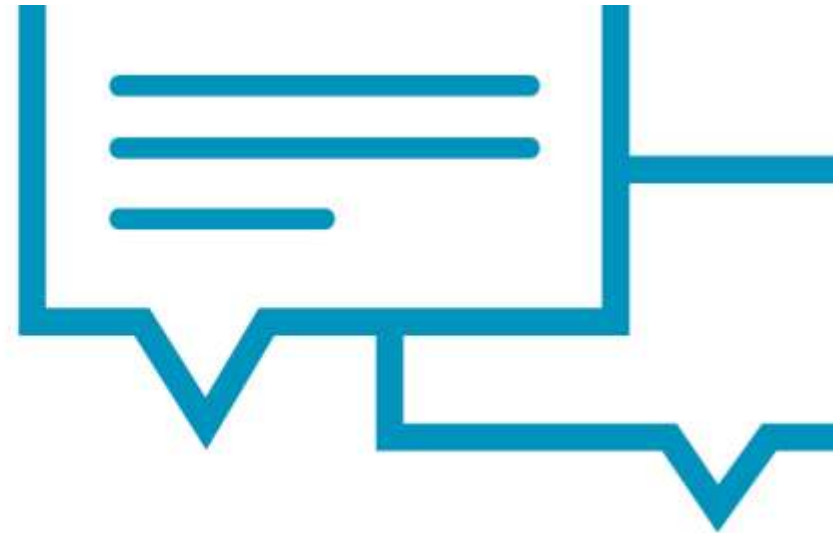

Important stakeholders were convinced to start using the FFP approach

There are many possibilities, for instance to carry out a pilot, language will be less of a problem since some Spanish or English can be used.

SW
OT

There is too little FFP LA material available in Portuguese

The country context is still quite unfamiliar to Kadaster, the stakeholders are met though the country is not yet known.

Storytelling

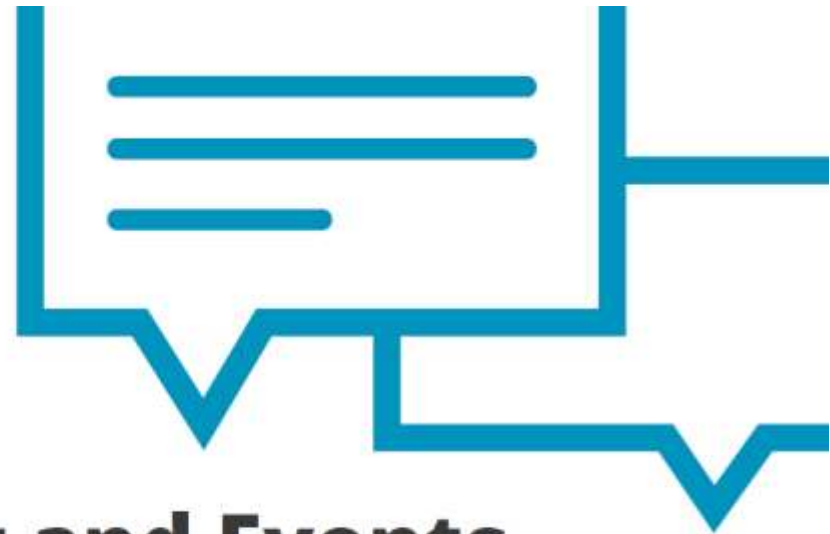

Explain alternative FFP LA methods to the general public and show innovative work from KI

Open to interpretation to ignite discussion and bring focus on the motivation for our work

S W
O T

Broad target group outside familiar network; access is unknown

That the movie will not be used or certain aspects will be misinterpreted

Networking and Events

Diverse group from Africa, Asia, Europe and South America. FFP LA is on the agenda of different UN groups

According to the meeting UN-GGIM can further organise the demand in LA. Besides, new countries have been familiarised with FFP

O T

Worldwide representation remains challenging

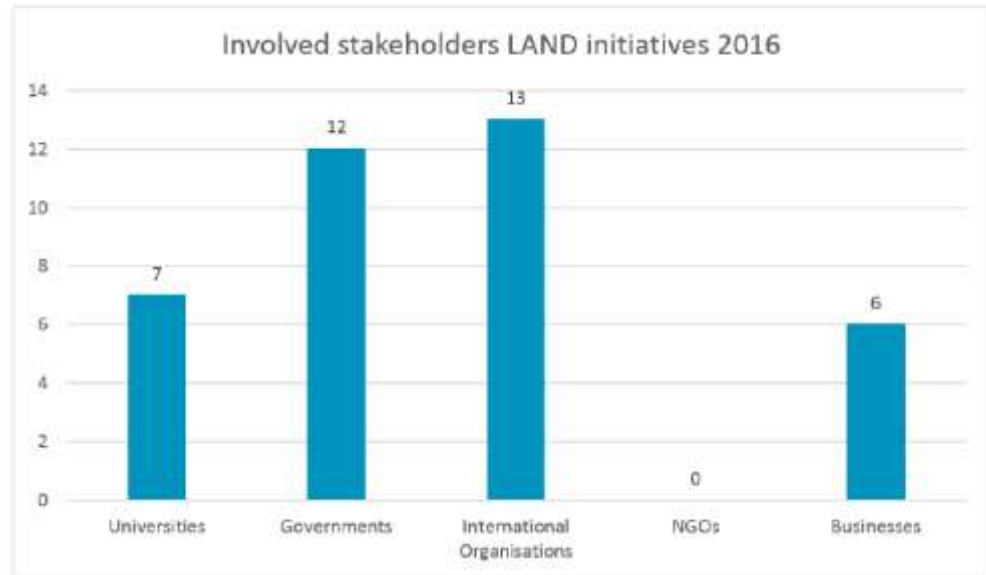

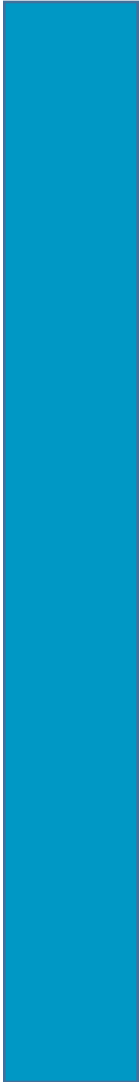

That FFP is used as a term, instead of an approach. We have to prevent it becomes a trend. It has to be a call to action
